

Privacy statement websites TNO

As soon as you visit this website you enable TNO to collect personal data about you, both directly (via the personal data provided at our request) and indirectly. TNO considers it of great importance that the personal data provided by you will be safeguarded and handled with the utmost care.

TNO will therefore use these personal data exclusively in accordance with the objectives described in this privacy statement and the other described ways of data processing.

The responsible party for the data processing is the Netherlands Organization for Applied Scientific Research TNO, with registered office at the Schoemakerstraat 97 in Delft.

Objectives of data processing

TNO will use your personal data for the performance of the various agreements which TNO may conclude with you. We will for instance ask your address data in order to send you your subscription to the TNO Magazine. TNO will also save the data provided by you when you for instance apply for a brochure or annual report.

In addition TNO will process your personal data for sending the online news letter and digital press releases.

Within the part “My TNO” you may, if desired, make your own profile. By doing so the information shown may be filtered so that you will only see information which is relevant to you. Only if you have indicated this, TNO may use these data to draw your attention by e-mail to new information on TNO’s website which is relevant to you.

The data which you have entered into “My TNO” will not be coupled to other data files existing within TNO.

No use of data by third parties

TNO will under no circumstances make your data available to third parties. Nor will your data be sold.

Cookies

Some of our websites will send a ‘cookie’, a small text file which will be saved on the hard disk of your computer. By means of a cookie our website can recognize you when you visit our website again and the site may be specially adjusted in accordance with your needs.
